

How Bush & Co. Won the Terror-War

Generally, the World has wondered about the obvious failures of the American government in their so-called 'War against Terror.' The optimism expressed by the administration of George W. Bush has not been understood, since the World is less secure today than before the crucial event of 9/11. The Allied forces are on the defensive in both Iraq and Afghanistan, where only small spots of 'secure areas' are being held while the population is subject to an unprecedented carnage, in Iraq claiming >3,000 fatalities alone in July. The death toll is also considerable among the coalition forces, although its exact size is estimated at being even larger, 2-5 times the official figures what the American numbers are concerned (currently between 2,700 and 12,500 killed in Iraq, to which a much larger number of severely maimed soldiers must be added). The health aspect of 'depleted uranium' raises concern in the USA, where the re-import is only a tiny fraction of the bombs dropped over Iraq (from where virtually nothing is published). How can Bush & Co. keep a smooth face in the view of such apparent failures?

There are two possible explanations: One is that Bush is lying as usual – the number of lies is considerable – but the other is, that everything is going well according to the options of his administration. This option is what shall be analysed here.

The military response was seen right after the new administration was sworn in, in the beginning of 2001. Also the attack on civil rights started before 9/11, the P.A.T.R.I.O.T Act (part 1) prepared and could be served to the congress in the wake of 9/11, where it was approved largely unread. Altogether, 9/11 was a success, the first major battle Bush & Co. won, not (as is regrettably commonly conceived) a plot against the American government planned in Afghanistan. How did this criminal administration profit from 9/11?

At first, the opposition to George 2nd Bush was silenced. His theft of the presidential election was until 9/11 heavily disputed. Secondly, the admission of Pentagon the day before, that 2,3 trillion $ could not be accounted for, was forgotten. Possibly this is related to Rabbi Dov Zakheim's (Pentagon's Comptroller) generous present of squads of F15 and F16 fighter jets to Israel at a fraction of their value. Thirdly, the destruction of civil rights was driven on with the before-mentioned PATRIOT Act, along with some measures, for which there is no juridical basis at all. Fourth, the Warfare in the Middle East started. NATO declared that somebody had attacked the USA but the kind offer to aid America's defence was not accepted. To this can possibly be added a fifth aspect: Israel profited immensely from 9/11. The question, currently left open, is only if this was planned or the total taming of America was a matter of blackmail from the Israelis, whose part in 9/11 (North) is considerable.

Having won crucial campaigns against its own population, the US won some battles in Afghanistan and Iraq (with some signs that they are about to loose both wars military). The next front opened was the "War on Terror" in Europe, leading these countries also to demolish civil rights. When that is the option, America may be winning also that aspect but there are many evidences linking Mossad to the European "terroritis," as I prefer to term it. As an example of their deep involvement stands 7/7 in London 2005, by which occasion four Moslem patsies were killed along with 52 others. Even the police do not consider them 'suicide-bombers,' a judgement made by all mainstream media. A detailed analysis of this event places the responsibility with Mossad in cooperation with sombre forces inside MI6.

The incredible torture-scandal, the logic of which fails to give any reason (but maybe I need some torture myself in order to understand it), is but another consequence of this trend. The war crimes performed by the occupying forces in Iraq, Afghanistan, Gaza and Lebanon yet others.

So when the World has become less safe to all of us, it is not because USA is in the defensive in the war upon terror – it is because they and their Israeli masters (USA is their largest colony) are behind the terror, leading to the wars they please. And that is how to understand that Bush & Co. have the overhand in the general development. Presently, at least – may it not stay that way.
