

Rewriting History

Having considered 9/11 and other false-flag terror attacks for several years, it becomes evident to reconsider history. Even if I can find no simple answer to the questions, "when did it all start?" and "which common purpose (if any) does this phenomenon follow?" it is obviously something, for which one should not close the eyes. Impressive is the claim, that "if 9/11 is not such a deception, it's an exception to the rule" [1], then used as an argument first to consider the obvious state involvement in this crime. 9/11, though neither the beginning, nor the end of the line, has a crucial importance: it was the start of a new row of aggressions, and whoever studies it must be blind not soon to find the tracks of the official involvement, whether in the spectacular events themselves or the destruction of evidences in the immediate aftermath. Analysing some events afterwards and then some before leads to an interest in the phenomenon of false-flag actions [2]. This leads us down well below 1900, if only USA is considered. The Swedish author F. William Engdahl goes a bit further backwards in his book A Century Of War: Anglo-American Oil Politics and the New World Order [3].

Going backwards, a brief consideration of some major false-flag actions (incomplete, of course) deserves reconsideration:

Year	Event	Description	Responsible (Probably)

But rewriting history is not just a matter of these false-flag events. The nations which can produce such horrific events towards its own citizens (e.g. in order to start wars due to the citizens furious reaction) also cover themselves behind false masks. And one of these false masks may be NATO, towards which I was previously a stout supporter. It is not easy for me to suspect NATO of ill behaviour, being grown up in the era of the cold war, but its present position as e.g. leading the war in Afghanistan justifies the question, if it is or has turned into a mechanism for the American warmongers. Among other additional questionable activities are its joint exercises with Israeli (the aggressor in the recent 2nd Lebanon war, contributor to terror activities worldwide) and its attitude toward Georgia and Ukraine, where strong protagonists for a full membership of NATO can be found – the price may be participation in the Iraq occupation for American oil-interests.

Questioning the Western governments intentions leads to my provocative statement, "Stop the war, we are at the wrong front" [<sup>13</sup>] – not that I would consider any other front, but I do not want to share responsibility for the lies and war-crimes committed by American and Israeli troops.

Once the lid is off the box and the possibility of an evil role of NATO is admitted, a historical review is not necessarily favourable: NATO was created 1949, in the cold war after the 2nd world war, and only five years later was its Eastern counterpart, the Warsaw Pact, created. The possibility of a neutralized and reunited Germany had been buried by the West (and Adenauer). While the Warsaw Pact was dissolved in the turmoil of the Soviet Union's dissolution, NATO is now leading a new cold war against Russia. In the reunification process, foreign troops should be removed from German soil, but American troops and their nuclear arms remain here. Recently, Russia cancelled an agreement for limiting missiles in Europe (KSE), which caused surprise in the West; however, the West did never itself ratify this agreement [<sup>12</sup>] and now even the Americans declared their intention to station rockets in Poland and Czech with the ridiculous argument to protect USA and Western Europe towards Iranian rockets. NATO's position in Kosovo shall be the subject of a later analysis, now I have started reconsidering history under the possibility that it has played a more sombre role. The war against Serbia 1999 is probably based on another false-flag action, a possibility I did not consider then – did you?
